UNVEIL "TABLET IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH IN HONOR OF FORMER PASTOR, THE REV. WILLIAM JOHNSTON; GRANDSON AIDS FATHER IN CEREMONY

The Rev. Howard L. Zepp Delivers Memorial Sermon at The Morning Service, Sunday—Plaque Replaces Monument Which Has Been Located On the Church Lawn

A bronze tablet in memory of the late Rev. William T. Johnston, pastor of the First Baptist Church here from 1906 to 1916, was unveiled yesterday at the morning church service. The unveiling was done by Wayne Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas H. Johnston and grandson of the one in whose memory the tablet has been placed. The tablet will replace the monument which was erected upon the lawn of the church and which it to be removed.

The memorial is located on the wall to the left of the pulpit and the bronze tablet is mounted upon a quartered oak base. The following is the inscription: "In memory of Rev. William T. Johnston, pastor 1906-1916, and founder of the Men's Meetings, whose loyal devotion and genial personality endeared him to all his friends. This plaque erected by the church, replacing the monument dedicated by the Men's Meeting."

A quartette sang one of the favorite hymns of the deceased pastor, "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning."

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Howard L. Zepp, pastor of the church.

Rev. Zepp stated that the men's meetings founded by the Rev. Johnston had proven so popular during his pastorate that at Mr. Johnston's death, a granite monument was purchased to preserve the memory of the founder.

After the monument was secured, there being no other location available for its placement, the church granted the permission to have it erected on the church lawn.

For many years it has been felt that the memorial in its present form is unimpaired for the location it occupies.

The bronze plaque was unveiled at the conclusion of the sermon. In acknowledgment of the memorial, Dallas H. Johnston, son of the deceased clergyman, addressed the congregation.

Mr. Johnston said:

"As a family our hearts are made glad to know that over the years my dad's memory has ever lived. Anything I might say this morning would be as naught compared to what he did during his lifetime in this church and community. We greatly appreciate the love and affection that has prompted the placing of this memorial tablet here, at the place where he gave his very life-blood in the cause of Christ and civic righteousness."

"It is a joy to see still as active workers some of those who were brought to the foot of the cross through the power of the Holy Spirit and his influence. I have relived this morning the 10 years Dad was permitted to labor here among you."

"With the hope and prayer that he may follow in his grandfather's footsteps, I am going to ask my son, Wayne, to join me in the unveiling of this memorial tablet."

Mr. Johnston stated that due to illness his mother was unable to be present.

Rev. Zepp's sermon was as follows: I have not taken a text this morning, but if you must have a text, let it be "Time and Space and Matter."

Time and Space and Matter are interesting subjects to the philosopher. One reason for their abiding interest lies in the fact that he is never quite satisfied with his own definitions of them. He defines them, and then he re-defines them, because they elusively escape all the mental molds in which they are cast. But far more interesting than Time and Space and Matter is Personality. What is it? Where did it come from? Why is it here? Where does it go after laying aside its medium of flesh? This is the enchanted ground for thinkers of every age. And no wonder! There is no reason for saying that God is engaged in creating any more space or any more matter; God's supreme interest for a thousand ages seems to have been in the realm of personality. This is His big work throughout the universe. Therefore when an unusual person comes our way, we somehow feel that the cosmos has hung over the fences of matter a flower whose beauty and fragrance are of immeasurable value to God and humankind. Rev. William T. Johnston was, above everything else, a predominant personality.

The greater the personality the greater the variety of material and spiritual things it requires for its self-expression. There have been many outstanding preachers. Spurgeon was a Biblical preacher. Parker an expository teacher. Beecher an all-round, humanity-loving and inspiring preacher. Bushnell was the reconciler, standing midway between the old dogma and the newer religious thinking. Brooks was a flaming heart, burning in Trinity pulpit. All true preaching is man-making, man-mending and character-building. Mr. Johnston was a true preacher. Now the church is a school and the disciples are pupils, and the preacher is a teacher, informing the intellect and sowing the seeds with the good seed of God's truth. Now the church is an armory to be stored with weapons, and the minister, realizing that all life is a battle against ignorance and sin, equips for the spiritual warfare with weapons against tomorrow's battle. Now the church is like a hospital, where many warriors have been like Christian, grievously wounded by the fiery darts of Apollyon and his minions, and these gashes in the soul receive medicines and healing lotions. Now the church is a family, assembled for good fellowship, and then the preacher is the leader of the group of children, gathered in the imperial palace, fitted up by the Divine King and Father.

As great personalities seek self-expression, these various material and spiritual benefits and truths come to us through the personality. The God idea had to become flesh and dwell among us. The truth of God moved into humanity through a living personality. The word became flesh. Born as a babe in Bethlehem, playing with children in the market place, lost in the city of Jerusalem to be found later in the temple, espousing as a young man the reformatory cause of His cousin John, accepting the mission of interpreting Messiahship in terms of character and service, led to trial for His heraldry, and put to death for His ideas. He would seem now to have ended His little drama and entombed in oblivion. But after He had gone it dawned upon the consciousness of a few thinking souls that what they had seen was a permanent objectifying of God. The truth of God came through the personality of Jesus. That is the way Christianity attempts to change humankind into a unified family of God; that is the way any life makes any contribution to the richness and happiness of the race. Truth is ephemeral and transitory until it becomes concentered in human personality. When it becomes flesh and dwells where people live it transforms lives, not by command, but by the magic of living ideas.

Mr. Johnston, like other great personalities, possessed three fundamental qualities: the value of others, affability and purposeful activity. To make personality effective, there must be an increasing sense of the value of others. Jesus resisted the temptation to apartness. To interpret God He must dwell among people, feel and know their lives, and write out His message in terms of their experience. Individual goodness, intellectually or physically, apart from the group life counts for little in our world. Jesus went about doing good. So your friend and pastor of yesteryears, by little acts of kindness, little nameless ministries of mercy and charity, most of them secrets locked in the heart of God, expressed his appreciation of the other fellow. Thus he gave his life and thus others found the benefits of his personality.

Second, to make personality effective, there must be a careful cultivation of affability. Unfortunately, too often we associate achieved goodness with asperity. Geniality and congeniality belong together. I am told that one day Mr. Johnston was painting about the church. He was in overalls and his face and hands smeared with paint. A stranger approached and asked, "Can you tell me where I will find the Baptist preacher?" "Right here," was the reply. "The devil," said the man. "No, not the devil, the preacher," was Mr. Johnston's answer.

Held in Bail for Court On Drunken Driving Charge

Alexander W. Miller, 28, 1644 Vanduyke street, Philadelphia, was held in $500 bail for court charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Miller was arrested early Saturday morning at Parkland by Highway Patrolman J. A. Patterson. He was pronounced drunk and given a hearing Saturday afternoon before Justice of Peace James Guy, in the Municipal Building, here.

The car Miller was operating and one driven by Russell Grapp, 2500 N. Fourth street, Philadelphia, collided. The Grapp car was damaged to the extent of about $80, it was estimated.

INSTALL OFFICERS AND ENJOY BANQUET

Morning Star Chapter No. 395, Order of Eastern Star, Conducts Annual Event

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Amid palms and flowers of every hue, the tenth annual installation of officers of Morning Star Chapter, No. 395, Order of Eastern Star, was held Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in the Chapter rooms in the Travel Club home, Cedar street, before a large assemblage of members and visitors.

Elsie F. Keplar, District Deputy Grand Matron of District 25-B of the State of Pennsylvania, who is a member of Morning Star Chapter, No. 395, was the Grand Installing Officer. Assisting Mrs. Keplar were: Ethel M. O'Dea, as Marshal; Margaret B. Smoyer, Chaplain; and Margaret Schmidt, Organist.

Mae H. Taylor, Conshohocken, who was Morning Star Chapter's first district deputy, who is now a member of the Grand Chapter of Pennsylvania in the capacity of Grand Chaplain, gave the obligation to the newly elected officers. Mrs. Taylor has been affectionately named the "Mother" of Morning Star Chapter No. 395.

Preceding the installation, Mrs. Frederick Allen, of Glenside, wife of the acting patron of Morning Star Chapter, rendered a vocal solo, "The Heavenly Song," and was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. George Miller.

Irene Wenzel was installed as Worthy Matron for the ensuing year; Rebecca Miller, Associate Matron; Ella Weber, Conductress; Mildred Smith, Associate Conductress; Lena R. Broadbridge, Secretary; May Smoyer, treasurer, and other officers to their respective stations.

Mrs. Wenzel was escorted to her station by Mrs. Miller through a "floral lane" formed by seven of her officers, each of whom carried a plant in keeping with the colors of the five points of the emblematic star.

Following the installation, Mrs. Hilda Wunsch, retiring matron, was escorted by Mrs. Ethel O'Dea on a "voyage of memory" at the conclusion of which a vocal solo was rendered to her by Mrs. Ida Johnson, and her jewel of office was presented to her by Margaret B. Smoyer.

Numerous gifts were received by C. continued on Page Four

Raft and Lombard Teamed In Dance Film at Grand

In response to the universal acclaim that greeted their first appearance together in "Bolero," George Raft and Carole Lombard are again co-starred in a picture based on a dance theme. It is Paramount's "Rumba," which comes tonight to the Grand Theatre.

The plot of "Rumba" is based on the love-story of Raft, a Broadway dancer exiled to Havana by threats of gang vengeance, and Carole Lombard, a beautiful and impetuous heiress.

When, as the result of a misunderstanding, she leaves him to return to New York, Raft accepts a part in a New York show. He wants to be near her, although he realizes that his foolishness may cost him his life. On the eve of the show's opening, Raft receives a letter stating that his appearance on the stage will be his "dance of death." Defiantly, Raft goes ahead with his plans.

As they are about to go on the stage Raft's dancing partner faints because she is unable to face the ordeal. Carole Lombard takes her place and the two lovers, lovingly reunited, do a dance of love that brings the picture to its happy and dramatic close.

Candy Pull Enjoyed By The Camp Fire Girls Here

The Camp Fire Girls, with Miss Margaret Pope as counselor, held a meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Vivian Werner, Filmore street. Bertha Borchers, in charge of the meeting, arranged a candy pull and games, which were enjoyed.

Those attending: Misses Irene Sharp, Norma Chambers, Marion Bolt, Gladys Weik, Margaret Wilkinson, Bertha Borchers, Jane Lynch, Phyllis Werner, Violet Ranck, Margaret Pope.

MEET TONIGHT

Ward leaders, committee members, and everyone identified with Boys' Week in previous years, are requested to attend a meeting of the 1935 Youths' Week committee tonight in the Elks' Club, at 8 o'clock.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS ASKED TO AID TAX BILL

Support is Solicited Despite $6,062,418.75 Cut In Appropriation

MANY WERE AMAZED

(Special to Courier)
HARRISBURG, Mar. 25.—School Superintendents summoned to Harrisburg last week for an unknown purpose learned from the lips of Attorney General Margiotti that they would be expected to go back home and work for the adoption of the Democratic tax program and revision of the Constitution.

Nothing was said of the fact that while the Governor has asked for revenues many millions in excess of any previous budgetary requirements, he has cut school appropriations $6,062,418.75 for the coming biennium.

School men, although given no opportunity for an expression of their opinion, were amazed that Margiotti neither explained this slashing of State funds for education nor gave any assurance that the cuts would be restored if the Governor's tax plans were adopted.

The bulletin of the State Department of Education, issued on the same day the Superintendents were convened, told the school men to:

"Support emergency taxes" and "Constitutional revision," leaving the impression very plain that if the Governor's program is not adopted the schools must seriously suffer. But not one word of criticism was expressed for the Governor's proposed reductions in school appropriations, which will have to be made up by local taxes if the schools are not to be severely handicapped.

But if the Department controlled by the Administration is silent on this subject, the State Education Association is loud and emphatic in its criticisms. The Education Association is non-partisan. It has never been accused of political control or bias. It is interested solely in promoting the cause of education. Discussing the Governor's school budget in its current bulletin, the Association makes this positive statement:

"An analysis of the educational items of the budget reveals that the amounts provided are not sufficient to carry on the present standards of our public school program."

Boy Scouts To Present Sound Motion Pictures

Boy Scout Troop No. 1 of Bristol will present sound motion pictures of Cecil B. De Mille's production, "King of Kings," tomorrow evening in the Presbyterian Church, at 7:45.

The "King of Kings" is an elaborate and reverent attempt to use the motion picture as a means of telling the great story in the world, picturing incidents in the life of Christ.

Tickets are being sold by the members of the troop and will also be on sale at the door.

Proceeds will be used to aid in sending representatives of the troop to the national jamboree in Washington this Summer, when 30,000 Scouts will meet in a great celebration.

QUAKERTOWN WINS FIRST HONORS FOR 4TH STRAIGHT YEAR IN BOTH CLASSES A AND C AT COUNTY SCHOOL MEET

Upper Southampton Wins in Class B and Buckingham Captures the Honors in Class D—Five Hundred and Eight Students from 22 Public Schools Participate in Events

(By Staff Correspondent)

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Mar. 25.—Scoring 28 points in Class A, and 31 points in Class C, Quakertown high school came through with first honors in these two classes for the fourth consecutive year, when the 15th annual Bucks County Interscholastic Meet was conducted in the Bensalem Township high school here Saturday.

First honors in Class B high schools went to Upper Southampton with 20 points, and in Class D to Buckingham school with a total of 28 points.

Class A included all schools with an enrollment of 150 or more in grades 9-12; class B, all schools with less than 150 in grades 9-12; Class C, all schools with enrollment of 100 or more in grades 7-8; and Class D, schools with less than 100 students in grades 7-8.

The manner in which the schools finished in their respective classes follows:

Class A—1st, Quakertown, 28 points; 2nd, Doylestown, 23 1/2; 3rd, Bensalem Twp., 21 1/2; 4th, Sellersville-Perkasie, 20 1/2; 5th, Bristol, 18; 6th, Langhorne-Middletown, 6 1/2.

Class B—1st, Upper Southampton, 20 points; 2nd, Yardley, 16; 3rd, Falls Township, 13 1/2; 4th, New Hope, 11; 5th, Springfield, 10; 6th, Northampton, 9 1/2.

Class C—1st, Quakertown, 31; 2nd, Doylestown, 16 5/6; 3rd, Langhorne-Middletown, 14 1/2; 4th, Bristol Township, 7; 5th, Sellersville-Perkasie, 5 1/3; 6th, Bensalem, 5.

Class D—1st, Buckingham, 28; 2nd, New Hope, 17 1/2; 3rd, Warminster, 13 1/2; 4th, South Langhorne, 9; 5th, Upper Southampton, 5; 6th, Springfield, 4, and Lower Makefield, 4 (tie).

Five hundred and eight participants gathered for this annual event, which is one of the red letter days on the calendars of Bucks County public schools, and alternates also numbered in the hundreds.

Starting promptly at 10 o'clock the meet events were run off in an exceptionally smooth manner, with contestants from the 22 schools entered taking their places in the various classrooms, numerous events being held simultaneously.

The judges, over 20 in number, were from various teachers' colleges and universities throughout Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

A change was made in the music events this year, with individual awards only being given in the trumpet, violin and piano contests, and points scored not counting in the schools' totals.

The chorus work this year took the form of a music festival, and was a most commendable event. Adult visitors as well as students filled the auditorium to listen to the pleasing selections which were meritoriously rendered under the direction of the music teachers of the schools represented. Listening to these selections as well as to the massed chorus was Dr. Bruce Carey, director of vocal music at Girard College, Philadelphia, who will correspond with the schools participating in this event, thus commenting privately on the renditions. This is the first year that the chorus work has not been entered in competition, and school meet officials are agreed that it is by far a more excellent method, instilling a love of music into the student, giving real pleasure at the time of rehearsals and the meet, and keeping the competitive idea out of the picture as far as music is concerned.

Awards to schools placing first, second and third were trophies, and the first three prizes for students placing were medals in gold, silver and bronze.

The manner in which students and schools placed in the events is here shown:

HE CAN'T TEACH POKER!

An Alexander is seeking new worlds to conquer. Ely Culbertson, having made the nation more bridge-conscious than it ever has been before, and having sold from one to a dozen books apiece to the whole card-playing population of the land, is looking about for a new field.

In fact, Mr. Culbertson has in mind to turn now to draw poker and lend the public the benefit of his great experience with cards. It is a question, however, if his facility at bridge fits him for such a task. In the first place, poker is definitely not a science but an art. It is not learned; if it is acquired at all, it is absorbed. And where the play in bridge is guided by logic and inferences gathered from events, in poker it rests on something much more psychic than the wildest opening bid of Mr. Oswald Jacoby.

The equipment of the superior player must include several more than the standard five senses, a wide acquaintance with the best and worst in human nature, of man's depravity and high optimism—in short, of every human weakness. One must have the memory of an elephant and be able to read cards, faces and the minds behind them. Naturally, these are not things that one derives from a book but from a native genius and a vast experience with all kinds and conditions of men.

Therein, it seems to us, lies the fatal weakness of Mr. Culbertson's purpose, for, as we understand it, the guiding principle of the Culbertson career has been that every literate American over the age of 12 can be sold another book.

JOBS PREFERRED

There are statistics to show that the view of the philosopher who cared not who made the laws of the nation so long as he could write its songs, is no longer widely held.

An argument has grown up around the authorship of "Home on the Range," the mournful ballad commonly cited as a favorite of Mr. Roosevelt's—which is not hard to credit, for a land "where never is heard a discouraging word" would commend itself to any president. At any rate 29 claimants to the honor of having written this song have already asserted themselves, which is certainly a coincidence if all speak the truth.

But down in Texas a recent vacancy in the legislature, caused by the appointment to an incumbent to a judgeship, drew 60 candidates for the seat; while in Wayne County, Michigan, 222 citizens entered the lists for places on the circuit bench. It is not in the record that any of these has ever written a song, or wanted to. No doubt, it is one of the unpredictable results of the direct primary that so many more today would rather run the country than care to compose its ballads.

The last advice is that Italy's war on Ethiopia may be shelved. For a time it looked as if the dove of peace would be pigeon-holed.

The farmers of Bucks County in the vicinity of Bristol have finished their sowing of Winter grain and should have a good crop next season, as they have hauled many tons of manure from the numerous landings on the Delaware river and the freight stations on the Pennsylvania Railroad, and thoroughly coated their land therewith. There were several heavy frosts in this section within the last ten days, and the farmers have commenced cutting their corn and ploughing out their potatoes, both of which prove to be good crops, although the cold and rainy weather the early part of the Summer somewhat retarded their growth.

In the state prison at Trenton, N. J., yesterday, a convict named Marshall knocked down and attempted to kill a man named Eastlack, who had been left in temporary charge of one of the shops. An underkeeper named Lowe arriving at the moment, shot Marshall in the head, inflicting a fatal wound. Marshall is only 29 years of age.

On Tuesday morning, about ten o'clock, as a north-bound freight train was proceeding over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Philadelphia, two cars, heavily laden with pig iron, near the center of the train, were thrown from the track by the breaking of the connecting-rod of one of the car-brakes. The accident happened about 50 yards south of the canal bridge in the borough of Bristol, and on account of the embankment at that place and the heavy freight with which the car was laden, it occupied several hours to remove the wrecked cars, the rear truck of one car being knocked from under it and considerably injured. There being a strike among the railroad laborers on account of a reduction of wages, there was considerable difficulty and delay in bringing the wrecking-engine and car from Tullytown. The north-bound trains were obliged to run on the south-bound track between Cornwells and Bristol, thus causing considerable delay and inconvenience to the south-bound trains, until 2 o'clock p. m., when the track was cleared and the trains run on their regular schedule time.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company have issued excursion tickets for persons attending the dedication of the new Masonic Temple in Philadelphia. The tickets are good on any of the passenger trains to and from the city on September 25th, 26th, and 27th inclusive. The excursion fare is fifty cents for the round trip from Bristol to Kensington depot, and 85 cents from Bristol to West Philadelphia depot. There will be no half-fare excursion tickets issued, and passengers using excursion tickets must travel on continuous trains between the stations named on the ticket.

It was stated in a news story that the towns-people would do well to make other arrangements for care of their freight in the approaching Winter as experience with the Pennsylvania Railroad was not so satisfactory. Railroad monopoly was decreed. "It was of such a character as called forth much complaint, and the subject of having an ice boat was agitated in our borough paper, but not until our river was frozen over (which occurred about the 22nd of December), and we were deprived of steamboat accommodations. This continued for very nearly three long months, or until the 19th of March, 1873, when the 'John A. Warner' made its first trip of the season to Philadelphia. Now are we willing to be thus hemmed in one-fourth of the year and be dependent on the railroad for the transportation of our merchandise, while we have such a noble river as the Delaware at hand? Has not the subject of owning or chartering an ice boat sufficiently matured to assume shape?"

The era of railroad speculation received a sudden check last week, the failure of Jay Cooke and Company precipitating the crash sooner than was anticipated. By the failure of Jay Cooke and Company a large number of bankers and brokers, dealers principally in fancy stocks, were forced to the wall. The suspension of Jay Cooke and Company's banking houses in New York, Philadelphia and Washington was caused by the firm having made large advances to the Northern Pacific Railroad. Notwithstanding the lavish expenditure for advertising and the enlistment of a skillful corps of journalists to write up the wonders and beauties of "Jay Cooke's Paradise," as the northern section of country through which the road passes was termed last Winter, the bonds could not be made to sell to the extent anticipated, hence the inability of the firm to answer to the calls of their creditors.

COMMUNICATIONS

Editor Courier:

I have read in different newspapers, articles concerning the re-arming of Germany. These articles only give one side of the story, never giving Germany a "break."

In the Temple University News I read an editorial which shows, at least, that the students of University of Temple are not for the trampling down of a nation that has suffered enough already; I suppose a great many of the people of Bristol would like to hear another side of the goings on.

If you will print this article I certainly will appreciate it. I am enclosing the article.

Sincerely yours,

VINCENT S. PASCERI.

Not An Ogre

European diplomats are viewing the scrapping of the Versailles Treaty with violent spasms of horror.

With almost unanimous voice they accuse Hitler and Germany. Hitler, according to their interpretation, is an ogre with a double-edged sword. Germany a mile-long snake with rearing head and venomous tongue.

But the action of Germany in instituting a conscription army, while it might be a violation of the Versailles Treaty, is only a vivid enactment of an old principle: what's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

This newspaper seeks to make no excuses for either Hitler or Germany.

But, it does maintain that Germany has done no greater wrong in violating the Versailles pact than the wrong which was done when the Versailles pact was drawn up.

There is no reason why France and Italy should arm to the hilt and still forbid Germany protection.

There is no reason why France should tower above Germany in threatening proximity, while Germany shudders in defenseless timidity.

Germany is entitled to just as adequate a protective force as its neighbors. The pity of it all is that its neighbors should keep the standing armies, the gigantic air and water fleets that they do.

Propaganda pouring from French, English and Italian government offices has permeated the American mind with the fundamental error of the German idea, but has not dealt with the cause of the whole situation. There was nothing admirable about the Versailles Treaty.

It was merely an invitation to another war. It was, in effect, the ultimatum of an over-sized bully to a defenseless weakling ordering the weakling to stay as weak as he was and not, under any conditions, try to defend himself.

Now that the unethical "scrap of paper" has been figuratively torn up, the European nations, if they are as interested in maintaining peace as their propaganda professes, will draw up a new treaty having provisions for no bullies, no weaklings, but only equals who have on hand nothing but armaments necessary for policing powers.

School Superintendents Asked To Aid Tax Bill

from isolated homes to schools is given by the Association as $2,500,000. This is the same as was appropriated two years ago and which has proved to be $400,000 too small. "The appropriation needs for transportation for the biennium," says the Education Association, "are at least $3,000,000."

Vocational education appropriations for the past biennium also proved so inadequate that there exists a shortage of $215,000. "The appropriation needs for the biennium 1935-37," the Association holds, "are at least $1,000,000." The Governor sets the appropriation at $800,000.

More serious, however, are shortages in other directions. The Association says that if schools are to be kept open, the emergency appropriation of $5,000,000, made during the last Administration, must be duplicated. The Governor makes no provision for such an appropriation.

Instead the Administration reduces the appropriations for education $6,062,418.75, below those of the last Administration, and these proved to be insufficient to meet needs.

Subsides recommended by the Governor under the Edmunds act, which are for the direct relief of local school burdens, are $53,000,000.

"The appropriation needs for the biennium 1935-37 are at least $58,000,000," the State Association says.

In other words, if the State is to meet its legal obligations under the Edmunds act, the Governor will have to revise his budget sharply upward. He shows no signs of doing that.

Put very briefly, the Democratic Administration has left the schools of the State holding the bag, and while it seeks to have them pull its scorched taxation chestnuts out of the legislative fire.

$1,400 HEADACHE

BOSTON — (INS) — A headache which wasn't even his, cost Israel Promer of Dorchester, $1,400. Promer told police he went to Chelsea to do a favor for a man who wanted to change some Spanish money, offering Promer $300 for the transaction. Promer withdrew $1,400 and handed it to the man for him to count. Suddenly the man complained of a headache. Promer went to a drugstore to get some headache tablets and when he returned the man was gone.

GOOD NEWS travels fast!

BAD NEWS used to have the reputation for speed.

But such is the demand for the good things of life today that good news travels even faster.

The carriers of many of the good tidings that every one is eager to hear are right before you. They are the advertisements in this newspaper. They bring good news about soap and cereals, sedans and cigarettes. Good news for the housewife. Good news for the business man. Good news for every one who believes in comfort and happiness.

Let an automobile maker in Detroit or an orange grower in Florida develop a finer product. You will hear about it—not in a couple of years, not just "some time." The whole new story will be rushed to you on the wings of the greatest good-news service in the world—advertising.

Advertisements are filled with the kind of good words you like to find. They tell you of new products, new improvements in well-known merchandise, new values and new ways to increase your well-being. And always they tell you not only where and how to purchase goods of assured merit, but also the way to be certain of obtaining 100 cents' worth of value for every dollar you spend. Read them—and get their good news regularly!

NEW DEAL EXPECTATIONS

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (INS) — A hitch-hiking couple walked into a transient bureau here where hundreds of hungry men were being fed. "Got a barber shop here?" asked the man.

"No," replied a clerk, who was endeavoring to see that no one left the place hungry.

"Well, I'll be damned—what an outfit," he mumbled, turning to his partner. "Let's go."

Unveil Tablet in First Baptist In Honor of Former Pastor

ton's humorous and genial reply. Affability is the necessary key to open the door to other personalities. What if we could know the harm that good people do who are not affable, not nice to have around? He was a hale fellow, accessible, sympathetic, patient, genuinely interested in others. Thus he gained entrance to other personalities and made the deposit of the truth of life.

A third compulsion to those who would preach through personality is unceasing purposeful activity. Jesus lived only 33 years, and only one-tenth of that time devoted wholly to the task of messiahship. Yet He drove so relentlessly His body and mind that it has taken centuries to appraise what He accomplished. I am not going to attempt to even catalog the accomplishments of Mr. Johnston's pastorate of ten years. By tireless, purposeful employment he translated his life into a clear message, changed the complexion of things and erected for himself a monument in memory more enduring than granite or bronze.

This monument in memory has given to me all that I know of Mr. Johnston. I never knew him. I was but a small boy when he was pastor here in 1906. In fact I was never conscious of the existence of this church until the summer of 1920 when George Craft walked into my church in Philadelphia and asked whether I would accept an invitation to preach in Bristol. And yet, from hearsay, I think I have a fair picture of the man and his message. The Men's Meetings, which he founded, their purpose, magnitude and popularity. To have secured, for a hearing in Bristol, the nation's leading educators, senators, and even the Vice President of the United States, is ample testimony of the magnetism of his personality.

I have been searching for some facts about these Sunday afternoon meetings. I have read carefully the minutes of the church but I find no mention of those gatherings which doubtless carried the name of this church to the opposite ends of the nation. It is a pity that a detailed history of those proceedings has not been preserved. This is not a criticism of either the church or its officers. I can see why this omission was made. After all, the Men's Meetings were but a side issue. I do not mean they were insignificant; I mean they were separate and independent of the actual workings of the church. Therefore, great as the never-to-be-forgotten Men's Meetings were, they do not tell the whole story. This is one of my chief criticisms of the monument on the lawn. It does not memorialize, either by suggestion or by definite statement, Mr. Johnston's unrivaled devotion or his unique personality.

The greatest omission of all, is that it does not even record the fact that this man, worthy of such eulogy, was ever pastor of this church. The monument on the lawn does not say anything except that Mr. Johnston was the founder of the Men's Meeting. That truly, is worth being remembered, but after all, he was pastor of this church. Any just appraisal must hold that of first importance was the pastorate. The Men's Meetings were a side issue. Without even assuming that I desire any credit for the wording on the bronze tablet which we shall presently have unveiled, I want to call your attention to the fact that we have, in all justice, rectified this grave omission and we have memorialized his matchless devotion and the personality which drew and held men while he was pastor of this church. I have been studying the church records in an endeavor to acquaint myself with the glowing achievements of this pastor. No minutes can possibly give a fair cross-section of any pastoral work. However, to one who can read between the lines, one can construct in vision, at least, some degree of the magnitude of this pastorate which we too feebly attempt to immortalize this morning. The records show the moving, tireless devotion of pastor and people and this edifice in its present interior features stands as a testimony to these accomplishments.

As early as in the year 1923, I attempted to do what we are doing this day. It is, therefore, with unspeakable joy, that I have the honor to participate in this service of just recognition

70 Years Spry

On March 22nd, this year, Provident Mutual was 70 years old. That's a lot of years. According to the best colloquialisms, that makes us "ripe." It makes us too ripe, in fact—too ripe by 15 years—to buy for ourselves a PROVIDENT PROVIDOR, that comprehensive retirement plan for men under 55. However, not being an individual, we find ourselves as gay as we ever were, a whole lot stronger, and more mellow with each new birthday. And if the years deny us the PROVIDENT PROVIDOR, they can't deny our offering its opportunities to others. So, if you are under 55—if, let us say, you were "founded" after 1880—it will pay you well to investigate the PROVIDENT PROVIDOR. In addition to paying you $200 a month for life beginning at 55, 60 or 65, it will pay $20,000 to your family if you die before that age. Ask your Provident Mutual agent about the PROVIDENT PROVIDOR today.

MORRISVILLE TRACK MEN WORKING OUT DAILY

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 25.—Under the supervision of Coach Earl Reist, former Millersville State Teachers' College all-around athlete, the Morrisville High School cinder men are working out daily in the high school "gym." To date no real outdoor practices have been held but will begin as early as possible.

Some 30 candidates, high jumpers, shot putters, sprint men, long distance runners, discus tossers and broad jumpers are taking the kinks out of their legs in informal drills in the "gym." Heading the squad of prospective tracksters is Gord Bamford, high jump ace. The loss of last season's crack short and middle distance star and crack shot-putter, Russ Malmesbury, will seriously handicap the squad but Reist hopes for a good year with Bamford and Ted Hansen probably forming the nucleus of the club.

Besides the Penn Relays and the Bucks County Interscholastic Meet, the Bulldogs will no doubt be scheduled for dual meets with Langhorne, Southampton, Dear School and a triangular meet between Bensalem, Bristol and Morrisville. Reist also said that there is a chance of entering the Franklin & Marshall Academy Relays, open to high and prep schools. The Bulldog mentor also plans to stage an intra-mural meet with prizes to be awarded by the Student Council. He will be assisted by Ike Scott, who will coach the Junior High School ensemble.

HOUSING HINTS

Time to Wire

A home may be made more charming, attractive and livable during dark winter days, by replacing obsolete lighting fixtures, installing new ones where needed, and wiring the home so that there are sufficient power outlets for efficiently using the vacuum cleaner, sewing machine, washing machine, iron, and other electrical equipment. Power outlets installed now will also provide connections for electrical fans which will be needed during the summer.

Use Attic Space

An extra guest room, which adds value to a home and provides for emergencies, can often be conveniently had by constructing a charming and inexpensive room in unused attic space.

Prevent Stain Bleeding

It is sometimes noted that, after paint or enamel has been applied over wood which has been stained, the stain will discolor or bleed through the new finish. A specially prepared sealer or a thin coat of shellac applied to the stained wood as a first coat will usually prevent the stain ruining the finish coat.

Miss Eda Di Renzo, 1019 Wood street, was a guest during the week-end of friends at Beaver College, Jenkintown.

both retiring and newly elected officers.

A gift was presented to Frederick Allen, acting Worthy Patron, in behalf of Morning Star Chapter No. 395, by Mrs. Anna Downs, in appreciation of the service which he has rendered throughout the year.

At 6:30 o'clock a banquet was served in the social room of the Elks Home, to 110 members and their guests. The menu consisted of grapefruit cup, snapper soup, lettuce with Russian dressings, filet mignon, browned potatoes, creamed mushrooms, peas, celery, olives, rolls, sherbert, ice cream, cakes and coffee.

The entertainment of the evening was a play entitled "The Happy Days" by Octavia Roberts. The cast included: Mrs. Lena R. Broadbridge, Miss Marian Hendricks, Miss Mary McAuley, Miss Margaret Pyle, Miss Margaret B. Smoyer, Mrs. Margaret Schmidt and Mrs. Mildred Smith.

Following the play, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Diplomats Gather

Today In Berlin

By Pierre J. Huss
N. Y. Staff Correspondent

Berlin, Mar. 25.—With a speedy dismissal of formality, the leading diplomats of Britain and Germany gathered in the Reich chancellery at 10:15 this morning for one of the most momentous international parleys since the war, to begin the first "exploration" of whether Germany is willing to discuss all around disarmament and common European security or whether Europe faces a new regime of armed peace.

Sir John Simon, British Foreign Minister led a delegation to talk with Chancellor Adolph Hitler.

The first session lasted slightly over two hours. A short communique merely announced that the conversations would be continued after luncheon.

France Votes Billion
Franc Increase for Defense

Paris, France, Mar. 25.—America's and Japan's naval increases were brought into the arms picture along with Germany's conscription today as the Chamber of Deputies, turning to France's sea defenses, voted a special billion-franc increase in marine appropriations by 453 to 125. The program calls for a new treaty limiting the first line battle ship of 35,000 tons to a cost of 785,000 francs; two destroyers totaling 3,400,000 francs to a cost of 148,000,000 francs and 132,000,000 francs to equip the new units. The total outlay is to be 1,065,000,000 francs or about $70,290,000. Emphasizing foreign naval constructions, Premier Appell put particular stress on Germany's acceleration by a new 10,000 ton pocket battleship.

chair the State Supreme Court ruled today in affirming a Luzerne County jury's verdict.

The Commonwealth's highest tribunal refused to grant the youthful defendant a new trial. Its decision makes it necessary for Edwards to die in the electric chair unless executive clemency is granted by the Governor.

The youth was convicted of killing his childhood sweetheart last July when the two kept a swimming date at Harvey's Lake, Wilkes-Barre. The Commonwealth contended Edwards beat Miss McKechnie to death so he could marry the second girl in a love triangle—Miss Margaret Crain, 23, a music teacher of East Aurora, N. Y.

CONDITION FAIR

The condition of Vincent Ferrara, 7, who was bitten by two dogs at the property of William E. DeGroot, Jefferson avenue, Friday, is reported as fair today. "He is holding his own," stated Harriman Hospital authorities this morning. The lad was badly lacerated and bitten about the face, ears, neck and arms, when he attempted to retrieve a ball which had gone over the fence as the Ferrara youth and school chums were playing in Jefferson avenue school yard.

Automobile Parked In A
Garage Damaged By Fire

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Mar. 25.—The automobile of John Keenen, Bellevue avenue, was considerably harmed by fire yesterday morning, damage being estimated at about $200.

The car, a sedan, had been placed in the garage at about 2:15 a. m. by Keenen. After he left yesterday morning for an early church service, Mrs. Keenen noticed smoke emanating from the garage. Summoning neighbors and South Langhorne fire company the blaze was soon extinguished. The garage did not become ignited. The blaze was confined to the interior of the machine. Cause is unknown.

“---as advertised”

HOW many times you see those two words in the course of a day's shopping: "This article for sale—as advertised."

And those two words are as welcome as they are familiar, for they form a bond of confidence between the merchant and yourself. They are his guarantee to you of worth and value.

Here is an article that has been described in your newspaper. Its merits have been told; possibly, too, its price. You know exactly what you will get when you buy it. You know its quality, its utility; you know how it fits into your needs. And when you buy it, you know you are getting not some unproved substitute but the specified article—as represented.

It is easy to understand why that phrase, "as advertised," creates a feeling of confidence. You have learned to depend upon consistently advertised products. You know that the maker has confidence in them, else he would not spend money calling your attention to them day after day, and month after month. You know that they have been approved by the most critical of investigators—the buying public. And above all you know from experience that buying goods "as advertised" is the best investment you can make.
